

Young Pharmaceuticals announces exclusive United States distribution partnership with LAC<sup>2</sup>βiome

HARTFORD, CT January 14, 2025

Young Pharmaceuticals, Inc., a leading provider of physician-dispensed skincare products, announces an exclusive distribution agreement with LAC<sup>2</sup>βiome S.r.l., a maker of microbial based product solutions in Milan, Italy.

The product line offers a science-driven approach to improving skin health. “Young is proud to offer InfiniteSkin™ Microbiome products to our market channel of elite plastic surgeons and dermatologists. The groundbreaking technology delivering live beneficial bacteria to the skin is complementary to Young’s line of medically formulated products,” according to John Kulesza, Young Pharmaceuticals President.

The first product to be introduced will be a patent-pending formula that combines Hyaluronic acid with live Lactobacilli and packaged in a unique patented mixing ampoule. Young will promote the product under the brand name BiomeAge™ for private labeling by dispensing physicians.

LAC<sup>2</sup>βiome CEO & Co-Founder Lasse Nagell says, “We are committed to offering solution-based microbial products for the medical aesthetics market. We are pleased to partner with Young as we share a similar focus on science-driven product development and overall excitement for microbial based skincare solutions.” The BiomeAge™ line will only be available through dispensing medical offices and their online stores. Director of Global Business Development & Co-Founder, Luc Monbourquette shares, “Education is key in this building space of true probiotic skincare and we see no better way to educate than with Young and their network of 2000+ dermatologists and plastic surgeons.”

About Young Pharmaceuticals, Inc.

Young Pharmaceuticals, Inc., based in Wethersfield, CT, USA, was founded in 1977 as a developer of products for dispensing dermatologists. As transformative ingredients became available for such indications as photoaging, our scientists applied their pharmaceutical chemistry experience to formulating a new generation of aesthetic treatments.
